

IN DIESEL LIGHT

A Railroad Photographer's Album

Lowell Amrine

Ladened with lumber from the Pacific Northwest, an eastbound climbs around Tehachapi Loop not long after sunrise.

The quintet of SDs entrained two-thirds back will cut-off at Summit Switch.

Leading an EMD, three C30-7s darken the skies above Hesperia as they lift westbound tonnage toward the summit of Cajon Pass, 1980.

A sextet of C30-7s with an obscured EMD climb Cajon Pass eastbound between Pine Lodge and Alray.

Dropping toward Valentine, Arizona, a westbound rejoins Route 66 at the bottom of Crozier Canyon.

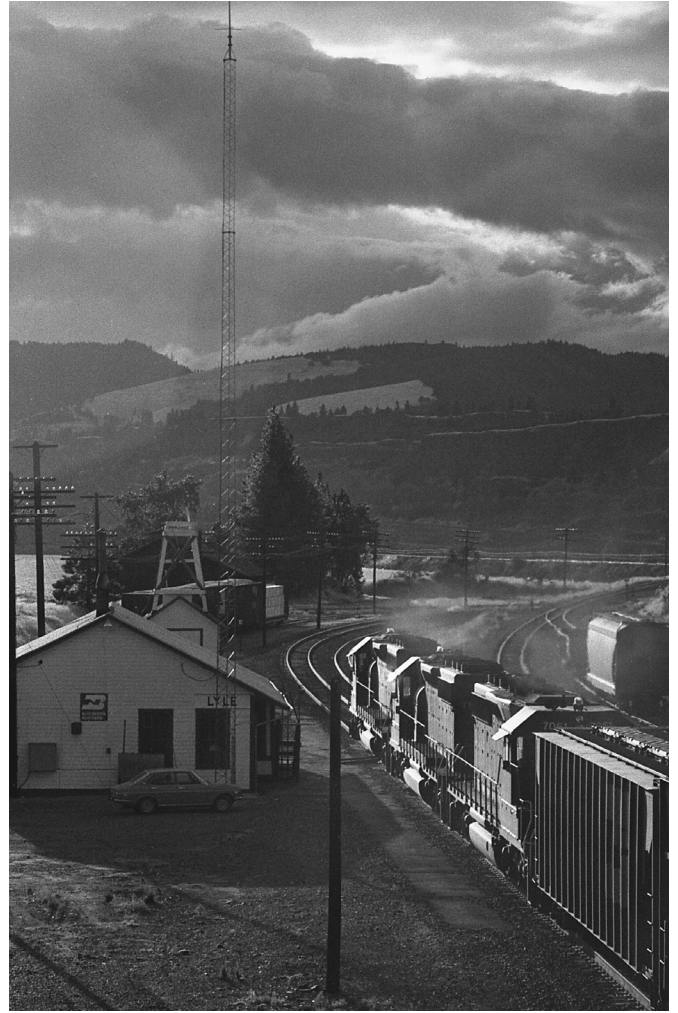

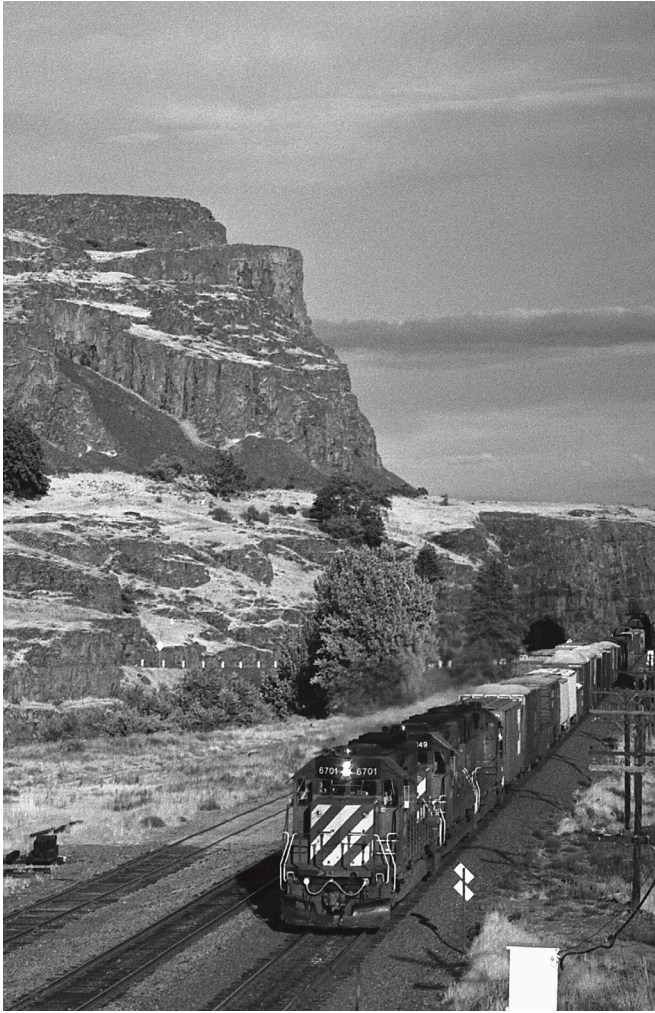

With the last of its train still over the Pecos River, a westbound departs Fort Sumner, New Mexico, 1990.

Still in Run 8, a westbound tops the hill at Yampai and starts the 107 mile descent to the Colorado River at Topock, 1983.

Illuminated by a Texas sunset, a quartet of SD40-2s work eastbound grain through Dalhart, 1989.

A trio of SD40-2s lead BN tonnage west into a cloud-filled sunset at Lyle, Washington, 1983.